Idea ther thinkulty is his country's opportunity. For this opportunity he is now preparing. Mr. Jennings, formerly editor of the New York Times, writing from London, a few days ago, to the New York World, says: "Everywhere the peasantry [in Ireland] are being drilled with the utmost care and regularity, and they are now all well armed. The police dare not interfere." The Irishmen in this country are no less active. Their principal object at present is to furnish the "sinews of war." With that object, O'Donovan Rossa and a few others started what is known as the "skirmishing fund," a short time ago, and this week's Irish World shows that i has already reached the magnificent sum of nearly thirty-two thousand dollars, and all voluntarily subscribed in small sums by the poorer classes. Truly has it been said, that the spirit of a nation never dieth; and never was this truth more forcibly exem plified than in the case of Ireland. BAILEY SPRINGS.

Elegance and Ease-Enjoyment and Good Health - "Laugh and Grow Fat," the Motto-All the Memphis Visitors Improved by the Healing Waters.

From an Appeal Correspondent.]

BAILEY SPRINGS, July 26 .- To-day the full measure of my happiness was made up.
As the dinner-bell rang, a lady on dress-parade entered the parlor. Said my companion:
"I cannot afford to dress for dinner; I have not got clothes enough." "Well," said I, "that has been the only crumpled rose-leaf in my couch, but since I find that I have such high-toned company, I am altogether glad that I have no gilt-edge toile s." And now I declare to you emphatically that life at Bailey Springs is simply perfect. True, the change of weather within the last two days does not warrant a continuation of the ballad, Gently Sighs the Breeze, with which we have been favored more than once; it rather suggests the Long Branch correspondent, who says the inquiry of the day is not What are the Wild Waves Saying? but What are those confounded waves swearing about?" In the absence of old ocean, Borea visits us at his own sweet will, as roughly as may be, with the following results: women look like mummies, and the young ones too lovely for earth, for his frosty breath only lends a new sparkle to their bright eyes and tinges their cheeks with a deeper carnation. We walk, we dance, we sing, we flirt, and we talk—oh, how we talk! Then some people guip the water, but we don't; it isn't our favorite beverage any way, and so, as we want to be entirely orthodox, we try to fulfill the compliment of our duti from the other diversions. The only disturb ing element in our paradise is that we have fallen hopelessly in love, which is certainly an unauthorized departure, as women are never supposed to be sensitively alive to the charms of each other. Well, "my lady,"
T-p-n, has the air of a born duchess a voice like the tone of a silver bell, and she rules with regal -way and matchless grace over the throng that will bore her with incense. Then there are the Misses Mary and Lucill Galloway, two "rare and radiant maidens," with a color that would shame the heart of a rose, with bonny brown hair that makes one realize what a woman's crowning glory can be, with manners that are a delightful melange of girlish gayety and womanly dignity. What more can be said, except that we recall, with mere than ordinary feeling, Bulwer's apostrophe to youth, and sigh for the bright days that are past. The visitors from Memphis are delighted. The sick are fast recuperating. The child of W. P. Hill's perhaps not many who read this paper will have noticed a tayonte performer there who sang songs in high falsetto voice, and who accompanied herself on the dram. She was sure of the recall, and, most times, and such worthless folk, have no right to ined their work. So she left the child in it's father's charge and went to the theater.

Close following her departure came a relapse, a convulsion, and what little life the had was gone out to its Maker. The husband sought the show-house. "How is the child?" was her first inquiry, and while his lips de-clared to her that it was still *leeping, his manner belied his words. He dared not tell all, lest her stage-work be imperriled. But to the other "ladies" of the troops he mentioned the fact of the dead child at home, with strict injunctions that they were "not to tell her a word of it yet." Their faces and whispered words fanned the suspicion which was growing on her mind, but just then the stage-manager shouted, "Miss Claire will avor us with a song and drum chorus," and he drummer-girl stepped out before the footlights with a curtsy, a salute, and a mirthless smile. She raitled off her part, and rushed each to the little dressing-room just in time to catch a half sentence, which told the truth. With a faint cry size dropped to the floor, the sticks falling from her pulseless hands, her jaunty hat and feather rolling away beneath the heels of her hurrying sisters. The house meanwhile clamored for an encore. The stage-manager was beside himself, shouted to the orchestra for a clog-dance, and the crowd was satisfied. But behind the scenes the woman iay in her insensibility. Then she was taken to her dead child, the shouts and stamping of the heedless throng following her as she stumbled out the door. Harry Hill's had one drama of which the gaudy posters gave no hint.'

courage and magnificent abilities, and in the dark days of the past ten years he has been the stubborn foe of Radicalism. The repartee between him and the versatile and brilliant Mrs. Pattie C—, of Forrest City, Arkansas, is radiant with wit and bright with sarcasm. Their daring sallies and inoffensive badinage and retort have been bright and sparkling. After all this, we shall think you more than human if you are not seized with an uncontrollable desire to become one of the dramatis persona of our summer idyl. If so, come on, and in case we do not find you incapable of appreciating a pastoral poem, we will not deny you. Finally, we have such a reckless profusion of good things, that it is a part of our gaily programme to toss up our broadbrimmed straw hats, with oft-repeated cheers, he never attained the wonderful popularity of his brother. HOME MANUFACTURE.

An Enterprise that Ought to have Publie Patronage-A Leading Establishment that Deserves

Among the leading establishments and most enterprising firms of this city is that of Grubbs & Austin, wholesale and retail dealers and manufacturers of clothing, This reand enterprising firm occupies the large four-story building, No. 332 Main street, and is now prepared to offer unusual inducements both to country merchants and other customers. Scarcely a man, woman or child in Memphis is unacquainted with this firm, for this house overshadows all others, and has long since taken its position among the grand est representative establishments of Mem In addition to the large and elegan stock of fine goods, embracing the best and most fashionable styles received from the east, Messrs, Grubbs & Austin manu facture jeans clothing on scale. In their manufactures scale. employ over forty men and women. This branch of industrial enterprise must completed itself to the consideration of all who wish to see the continued prosperity and future growth of Memphis. Messrs. Grubbs & growth of Memphis. Austin, in doing so much to encourage and develop home industry, are conferring a benfit upon the country. They are enabled to make up goods much cheaper than it costs to purchase them east, and, therefore, they offer the trade unusually low figures. The gentle-men (Messrs. W. B. Grubbs and J. A. Austin) who compose this firm have long been en-gaged in the clothing business, and are fa-miliar with its every detail. They are the most energetic and enterprising representa-tives of this branch of business in Memphis. Their long experience is combined with reliable talent and a spirit of enterprise for the promotion and successful development of a re-table industry. The manufacture of janes, cotonade and other clothing by this firm cannot oe regarded with too much favor. They us only the best of goods, employ none but experienced hands, and guarantee to offer bet er products at as low rates as can be given any eastern house. To our friends in West Tennessee, Arkansas and Mississippi we say give this house your attention, and examine what it has for sale, made right here at home. No establishment in Memphis de-serves more of the public than the above ouse. Their fine custom-made goods equal those of any stock ever brought to this city. In addition to their large and constantly in-creasing wholesale trade, Messrs. Grubbs & Austin do an extensive retail business, and rench journal (La Liberte) a curious and itesting letter from Jenny Lind, the Swedish nightingale, now fifty-six years of age, written by her at Dresden, where she now lives, to a friend in Paris: "I want to speak to you of my baby. Well, I must tell you that God has given my dear husband and myself an adorable little girl, sealed into one serene repose. Colonel Chisholm has the kind of a face you would instinctively trust. Looking into it, you would put your whole worldly estate, your character, into his hands and feel that all were in safe keeping. Colonel Chisholm is conspicuous in Alabama for talent and patriotism. He is a man of spotless character, of lofty courage and magnificent abilities, and in the dark days of the past ten years be has been in father. Alexander Placide: his mother.

New York World: We translate from a

Some days ago we published in the AP-PEAL, by telegraph from New York, the facts of March last. She is the perfect image of health and happiness. New York World we gather the following particulars of his life:

Thomas, or, as he was commonly called, "Tom" Placide, was born in Charleston, South Carolina, in 1808. He followed the tradition of his family in becoming an actor—bit father. Alexander Placide: his mother, will be four years old the ninth of August in the AP-PEAL, by telegraph from New York, the facts of March last. She is the perfect image of health and happiness. She laughs and crows in a way to delight all sympathetic hearts. We have given her a little Katharine hmong her other names, but we call her Jenny, I need not say in honor of whom.
